EMPLOYEE TRAINING

The Labor & Employment Group at Norris McLaughlin & Marcus believes it is essential to train employees and offers a complete range of affordable labor and employment training sessions for all employees, including human resource professionals and all levels of management, designed to help employers avoid expensive fines and litigation.

For many years, we trained our employees using videos produced for harassment training. They were getting outdated and stale so we decided to try NMM Labor & Employment group's training, and it was a hit. Our employees were engaged, participated, and a number of them expressed how much they enjoyed the sessions NMM provided.

Our dynamic speakers emphasize audience participation and role-playing to comply with the EEOC's guidance on legally effective training—encouraging audiences to listen more attentively during training, which can effect real change in the workplace.
